

Culturally Responsive Teaching Test

Agree or Disagree?

- Culturally responsive pedagogy is a new and special type of pedagogy that is relevant only to low income, urban students of color.

Agree or Disagree?

- In schools with diverse student populations, all teachers, regardless of ethnicity are capable of demonstrating the essential elements of a culturally responsive pedagogy

Agree or Disagree?

- Culturally responsive pedagogy is a bag of tricks that minimizes the difficulty of teaching some diverse students.

Agree or Disagree?

- Culturally responsive pedagogy requires teachers to master the details of all the cultures of students represented in the classroom.

Agree or Disagree?

- Culturally responsive pedagogy leads to less stereotypes about children because teachers are trained to address their students' needs.
